I think that there are a bunch of different learning styles, Physical, verbal, and visual. And it definitely can affect how you learn for example a vocal or a person who needs to hear things may find themselves struggling in an online class where there is a lot of do-it-yourself and vice versa. And a way yo ver come that is either the teacher making things for everyone which is really hard or you figure out what type of learning style that you have and then take classes that work with that style.